

117°

A diagram showing an obtuse angle. A horizontal ray extends to the left from a vertex, and another ray extends upwards and to the right. The angle between them is shaded in teal.

63°

A diagram showing an acute angle. A horizontal ray extends to the right from a vertex, and another ray extends downwards and to the left. The angle between them is shaded in teal.